Based on the increase of published articles on bullying and victimization in journals, textbooks, government reports, and documents in professional organizations, it is timely for a special volume on research on bullying and victimization in early childhood education. The purpose of this volume is to make a collection of research and practice to better understand how developmental psychology and social psychology can improve the lives of children. The volume includes both qualitative and quantitative research on various aspects of bullying and victimization, including the factors that influence children's behaviors and the interventions that can be effective in reducing these behaviors. The chapters are written by experts in the field and cover a wide range of topics, from the psychological mechanisms underlying bullying to the social and cultural contexts in which bullying occurs. The book is designed to be a valuable resource for educators, researchers, and practitioners who are interested in understanding and addressing bullying and victimization in early childhood.
